

Who Are You?

Clare Stefan

Nobody is perfect. Nobody is the same.
Everyone is unique, and they came
Into this world not knowing
Where they should aim

Should they be a movie star
Should they drive a sports car
Everyone does something different, But. . .
Does it really matter what they are?

It's not always black and white
Sometimes it's dim, sometimes it's bright
It can be shiny, or it could be sparkly
Whoever said there was wrong or right

What matters is that you are a person too
And who knew
We were so alike
And sometimes all it takes is a good point of view to see

It's not always black and white
Sometimes it's dim, sometimes it's bright
It can be shiny, or it could be sparkly
Whoever said there was wrong or right
It's not always black and white