

The Grey Space

Although it may seem
There is nothing in between,
There is always grey space
To complement both the white
And the black.

Similar to how there isn't only one side to a story,
Nothing is always black and white.
There is always something else,
Whether that be a witness,
A boot print,
Or a misplaced object.

Whenever it seems like there is no grey,
Look closer,
Because there is always evidence in a conviction,
Like there is always grey space in between,
The black and white.
